YARA BUDHI WIDOWATI

VICE PRESIDENT (VP)
DEPARTEMEN TANGGUNG JAWAB SOSIAL DAN LINGKUNGAN (TJSL)
PT PUPUK KUJANG

ACKNOWLEDGED AS

OPERATIONAL ESG IMPACT LEADER

BASIS FOR LEADERSHIP RECOGNITION

Before: Communities surrounding industrial operations face interconnected environmental, social, and economic risks. Environmental degradation, livelihood vulnerability, limited community capacity, and dependence on local natural resources can affect not only community welfare but also stakeholder relationships, social resilience, and the long-term sustainability of business operations.

Transformations: Under Yara Budhi Widowati's leadership of the Social and Environmental Responsibility Department, the TJSL function is positioned to strengthen the connection between risk awareness, community empowerment, environmental responsibility, and sustainable economic value. Her professional background in risk management, finance, investment, governance, and organizational leadership provides a strong managerial foundation for overseeing social and environmental programs as structured interventions rather than stand-alone philanthropic activities. Her career record confirms prior responsibilities in risk management, finance, investment, and senior managerial assignments before assuming leadership of TJSL.

Significance: Leadership becomes meaningful when social and environmental responsibility is translated into stronger communities, healthier stakeholder relationships, environmental resilience, and protected economic value. Yara Budhi Widowati's leadership profile demonstrates how experience in risk management, finance, governance, and management can strengthen the strategic role of TJSL in connecting corporate responsibility with long-term resilience.

- LRMI (100) → Yara demonstrates exceptional risk awareness, supported by her professional background in risk management, finance, investment, and governance. This provides a strong foundation for identifying material social, environmental, and business risks.
- RSAI (100) → The score reflects very strong alignment between identified risks and TJSL strategies. Her leadership supports the translation of social and environmental challenges into structured and relevant interventions.
- AMS (90) → The score reflects strong program execution across community empowerment, environmental management, and livelihood development. The score remains prudent as several outcomes represent institutional continuity rather than Yara's individual contribution.
- FVS (94) → Strong program evidence is available through corporate documentation, external publications, academic studies, stakeholder participation, and beneficiary information, providing a credible basis for verification.

- HWR (88) → The score reflects a strong welfare orientation through community empowerment, livelihood strengthening, capacity development, and local economic resilience, while maintaining caution regarding individual attribution.
- HCR (90) → Yara demonstrates strong leadership, communication, and stakeholder coordination capacity. The score is not maximized because direct evidence of her leadership in major crisis communication remains limited.
- EPC (92) → The score reflects a strong orientation toward economic protection through livelihood development, community economic empowerment, and risk mitigation, reinforced by Yara's background in finance, investment, and risk management.

With a final score of 93.60, Yara Budhi Widowati demonstrates strong ESG leadership combining risk management, financial discipline, governance, program execution, stakeholder engagement, and economic protection. Her professional background provides a strong foundation for positioning TJSL beyond social assistance—as a strategic instrument for strengthening community welfare, environmental resilience, stakeholder relationships, and sustainable economic value. Based on the La Tofi ESG Leadership Assessment Framework, Yara Budhi Widowati is classified as PLATINUM LEADER PERFORMANCE, reflecting her capacity to connect risk, strategy, action, impact, and long-term resilience.
